

I read the book Wonder written by RJ Palacio. The best word to describe this book is different. It stands out from other books because the story is told from different people's perspectives. This book is about a boy named August who looks different than everyone. He is going to a new school and he makes friends, but he makes enemies too. Some of the highlights of the story are when August finds good friends, but one friend betrays him. Then, after a while, that friend comes back, and he and August build a stronger friendship. What I won't tell you is that August changes costumes. I think you would enjoy this book because you will become empowered by August and his friends. Have you read any good book lately?
