

I read the book The Ruins of Gorlan, written by John Flanagan. This is book one of eleven in the series. The best word to describe this book is outrageous. It stands out from other books because it is action packed but easy to read. The book is about Will who gets picked as an apprentice to accompany Ranger Halt. They have to train fast and get ready for a war of a lifetime. Some of the highlights of the story are when Will has to climb the castle wall to steal an important letter. What I won't tell you is what the Kalkara is. I think you would enjoy this book because it has a lot of action, battles, and takes place during medieval time. Have you read any good books lately?
